Forward

The mission of Uganda Society for Disabled Children isOne of the ways we intend to fulfil this mission is to reach children with disabilities in Uganda with services that will help them reach their full potential. We will reach some of these children through the services USDC initiates and supports in our target districts of Luwero, Masaka, Kampala, Jinja, Soroti, Hoima, Masindi, Arua, Nebbi, Adjumani, Moyo, Lira and we will reach others through the services of this directory.

Children cannot be separated from their parents and caretakers who are our main partners and through whom we reach the disabled children. We found that family members, especially parents are committed and willing to do all that is possible within their means to help their children with disabilities. Most of the time they do not know where to go for services. Even if they do reach a services that is close to them, the service providers may not only be unable to help but may also not know where the child could be referred to for assistance.

It was with this in mind that USDC developed the directory of disability organisations and services in Uganda. The directory will help PWDs, their families, various service providers and development partners identify the closest service to them and the various options that can be explored. The first chapter of the directory provides an overview of disability in Uganda, factors that limit participation of PWDs, what can be done and possible sources of services. The next chapters are a compilation of addresses of organisations of persons with disabilities and of service providers. They have been listed by district to ease the search.

This directory, the first of its kind in Uganda will be updated annually. A form is available at the back of the directory for those who wish for their organisation to be included in the next issue.

Please use the directory and let us know how it has been useful and any challenges that you may have found while using it.

How to use this Directory

The Directory of services for persons with disabilities in Uganda is designed to guide society on what services are available for physical, social, educational, rehabilitation and development of persons with disabilities in Uganda. It is therefore designed for easy use by all people who may need the services. It is arranged to address the needs of different categories of society considering mainly the aspects below:

Background Information on Disability in Uganda: Chapter 1 describes the prevalence of disability, challenges faced by people with disabilities and possible ways these challenges could be overcome.

Services by District: Chapter 2 endeavors to provide all disability development and rehabilitation services in each district as of 2009. Districts are arranged alphabetically.

Services By Disability: You may want to know the organizations and rehabilitation services for different categories of disability. Chapter 3 provides lists of:

- Organisations for all disabilities,
- Organisations for the deaf and hard of hearing,
- Organisations for the blind and low vision,
- Organisations for mental illness and learning disabilities,
- Organisations specific to Epilepsy,
- Organisations specific to physical or mobility disabilities and the
- Organisations for the deaf blind.

Services and organisations for Children and for women are specified in Chapters 4 and 5 respectively.

There are lists of branches, contacts or services that have been included next to their head organizations for ease of identification. These include NUDIPU district Unions, physiotherapy services, Vocational training institutions and Special Needs Educational schools.

A soft copy of this Directory is available on CD.

Chapter 1

Disability and Development in Uganda

1.0 Overview of Uganda

- 1.1 Uganda is a tropical country with one third of its mass covered by water. 241,139 sq km of which is 43,938 sq km (17%) are swamps and water. The population is estimated at 31 million (UBOS 2008) with a growth rate of 3.6 per annum. The literacy rate is 61% female and 76% male. Fifty five% is composed of children under the age of 18 years. Uganda is among the HIPC and has a GDP of $420 with a gini –coefficient of 0.581. The maternal mortality rate and infant mortality rate are at 435/100,000 and 75/1000 live births respectively.
- 1.2 The culture, economic and political development of Uganda has had significant influence on disability and access to services by persons with disabilities. Uganda became independent in 1962 and experienced rapid economic growth during the first two decades based on coffee, cotton, copper and tourism. This growth was interrupted by a series of conflicts that have directly and indirectly impacted on disability through war related injuries and breakdown of health services.

2.0 Brief History of disability movement in Uganda

- 2.1 Persons with disabilities have traditionally lived with their families. During the 50s and early 60s institutions were introduced based on the charity approach and in the case of physical disability, in response to the global polio epidemic. The most prominent of these was for the blind, for persons with polio and those with leprosy. Uganda Foundation for the Blind (UFB) was founded in 1952 and enacted 1954. Extremely few PWDs accessed these institutions and those who did tended to live permanently in them.
- 2.2 In the late 70s PWDs started to come together to form single and multi- disability groups such as the Invalid Salvation Stream (ISS) in 1976. Disability organisations met in 1987 and founded the National Union of Persons with Disabilities in Uganda (NUDIPU), a national umbrella organisation for disabled peoples' organisations. NUDIPU currently has 5 uni-disability member organisations, 56 district unions and 3 associate members. It has been providing the election framework for election of PWDs at district and parliament level.
- 2.3 One of the early strategies of NUDIPU that was of very great leverage to the disability movement was the successful lobby for inclusion of PWDs in the constitution assembly (1992) and constituent assembly (1994/95). PWDs joined voices with women and other marginalized groups, and successfully advocated for affirmative action of women and PWDs. A prominent outcome of this was the representation of PWDs in parliament and consequently in all local councils from village to district level.

DISABILITY ORGANISATIONS IN UGANDA

- 2.4 The self-representation of PWDs has greatly affected the legal arena in Uganda. Several laws and by-laws have been enacted at parliament and local (district) levels respectively. These are discussed in section 5.1
- 2.5 Parallel to the development of the disability movement was the formation of organisations for disabilities. An example of this is Uganda Society for Disabled Children which was formed in 1985 with the aim of supporting rehabilitation of children with disabilities and facilitating their inclusion in families, communities and schools. An important strength of the disability work in Uganda is the corporation between organisation of and organisations for persons with disabilities.

3.0 The profile of disability in Uganda

- 3.1 According to the 2002 census PWDs are 4.2% of the population. The 2005 Uganda National Household Survey found 7% and the Uganda Demographic Health Survey in 2006, 18%. The break down by region based on the Uganda National Household Survey is in the table below.

Table1 : Proportion of disability by region and possible reasons

Region	%	Possible reason relative to other regions
Northern	24.78	War and breakdown of social services; poverty and underdevelopment
Eastern	26.55	Poverty, high prevalence of trachoma
Central	27.54	This percentage is the highest because it is drawn from a higher population than other regions.
Western	21.13	Peace in most of the region for a longer time than others. More wealth, relatively better social services.
Total	100

The demographic health survey 2006 which defined disability by 'difficulty to perform' and whose enumerators were better trained, found a prevalence of 18%. Despite the variance, it is important to note that disability is an important developmental issue that affects about 2,092,234 PWDs and their immediate family.

The main categories of disabilities in Uganda include: the blind, the visually impaired, the deaf, the heard of hearing, the physically disabled (movement disability), persons with epilepsy, the mentally ill, the intellectually disabled, persons with albinism and the deaf/blind. The categories have been increasing in number as empowerment and services develop. For example recent addition is the landmine survivors and the Albinos.

3.2 The proportions of the different disability categories are in the table below.

3.3 Age distribution

Proportion of the age groups contributing to disability.

50% of PWDs are children below 18 years. 33% is above 60 years of age.

Proportion of PWDs in different age groups –children, adults and older persons

3.4 Causes of disability

According to the 2002 census, communicable diseases including Malaria, Polio, meningitis, etc, caused 53% of disabilities. This is followed by natural aging process and congenital at 17% and 15% respectively. Injuries contribute 12% and Road Traffic Accidents (RTA) alone 10%. A new concern is the injuries due to injections. Congenital problems contribute to 15% of disabilities. The commonest congenital defects are club foot and cleft palate.

A qualitative study on the causes of disability by USDC (2005-06) identified the following as the main causes of disability among children in Uganda: malaria, meningitis, TB, birth injuries, congenital problems and trauma. AIDS is another common cause of disability with about 10 % of patients on ART developing disabilities. Witchcraft is still commonly believed to cause disability.

Injuries from war including gunshot wounds and landmines have contributed to disability and may be the main reason for the high prevalence of disability in Northern Uganda. Non communicable diseases that cause stroke and other disabilities, such as hypertension, heart disease and diabetes are also a growing public health problem associated with Uganda's ageing population, sedentary lifestyle and western diet. Sickle cell anaemia is still a common childhood disabling condition but with improvement in management is extending to adulthood disabilities.

Trachoma, cataract, diabetes mellitus and congenital defects are among the main causes of blindness and low vision. Otitis media (pus in the ear) is a common childhood disease that causes deafness. Other causes include ageing and congenital defects of the inner ear are meningitis and encephalitis. German measles (rubella) is a common cause of deaf-blindness.

The underlying factors for most of the causes of disability include poverty, low levels of education, low status of women and girls, poor access to effective health services and negative cultural beliefs and war.

Table 3: Causes of disabilities as found in the Uganda national Household survey 2005/06.

3.5 Changing causes of disability

Global public health campaigns that have been implemented in developing countries over the past twenty years have had a significant impact on the causes of disability and hence the profile of disability. Polio immunization campaigns, strengthening of routine immunization against childhood killer diseases, vitamin A supplementation and other child survival strategies have eliminated or markedly reduced many child- disabling diseases. For example childhood blindness from measles and vitamin A deficiency is rarely if at all seen today. Polio is extremely rare in children below 15 years of age. The successful health campaigns and improvement in health care, however, have not reduced the prevalence of disability because children who would have died in childbirth are surviving with disabilities; the adults who escaped death from AIDS in the 90s are surviving with ageing and non communicable disease related disabilities. The re-emergence of malaria has a great toll on children increasing multi-impaired individuals. Treatment with ART has reduced AIDS related mortality but increased the disability incidence among HIV survivors.

4.0 Services that target PWDs

- 4.1 The services that PWDs require fall into two major categories; those that the whole population requires and those that are specific to the needs of PWDs. PWDs face barriers that limit their access to services available to other members of society. The most critical services that PWDs need to access are justice, education, health, vocational training, and all sources of livelihood. The barriers broadly include negative attitude, physical barriers such as stairs, high switches, ditches and communication barriers due to lack of sign language, Braille, low vision aids and appropriate communication with the intellectually impaired. The organisations listed in this directory through various strategies are attempting to remove barriers that hinder PWDs from participating in the mainstream. The main strategies used are advocacy and lobbying, legal provisions and enforcement and providing modals to emulate.
- 4.2 The second category of services that PWDs need is interventions to enable them overcome the barriers in the environment. Among these services are provision of mobility training for the blind, sign language training for the deaf and training in activities of daily living (ADL) such as learning to cook, bath, clean the house, shop, after becoming disabled. In children ADL training covers self-care, learning to toilet to feed one self and many other activities. In addition to basic rehabilitation described above, education and socioeconomic empowerment are important PWDs to participate in every-day life and gain acceptance.

- 4.3 Assistive devices are important to the wellbeing of PWDs. They help persons with disabilities to communicate, move and to take care of themselves. Assistive devices are of two types; those that support the body to function such as artificial limbs, calipers special shoes/boots, wheelchairs and others. These aids do not only support the body but also prevent further weakening through wrong posture and weakening of muscles. The second type of devices support the execution of ADL tasks and communication. They range from simple boards to adjusted kitchen and bathroom tools to complex lifts communication charts and voice amplifiers. Several organisations that provide assistive devices (imported and locally made) are listed in this directory.
- 4.4 In this section, the major special services required to facilitate access by PWDs to opportunities and services available to the rest of the population are discussed.

5.0 Rights-based Approach

5.1 Disability is a normal occurrence in life and is part of humanity. PWDs, therefore, need to be treated with respect, having an equal right to living like the non-disabled people. A slogan for international day for human rights (2002) says, 'we may be very different but we are all equal.' It is against this that PWDs reject charity and demand for their rights; right to life, to a family, to name, to belong to a community, to education, to health, to dignified livelihood, to protection and many others. Globally the demand for rights has culminated into the Convention on the Rights of PWDs (2006), which Uganda ratified in 2007.

Table showing core legislature on disability¹

Legislation	Inclusion issues
International
UN Convention on the Rights of persons with disabilities (2007)	The Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (2007) is currently the key instrument at the international level concerning the inclusion of persons with disabilities. The Convention is a powerful instrument in the struggle for access to equal rights and enhancement of the dignity of persons with disabilities. It is also a valuable instrument for mainstreaming disability from a rights perspective. The convention has been signed by the government of Uganda pending ratification.
The Convention on the Rights of the Child (1990)	Uganda is a signatory to Convention on the Rights of the Child that established the rights of every child to primary and secondary education, early identification and health care

The Dakar Framework for Action (UNESCO 2000)	This framework among others stated that by 2015, all children particularly girls, children in difficult circumstances and those belonging to minorities would have access to completely free and compulsory primary education of good quality.
Local
The Constitution 1995	Article 32 of the Constitution of Uganda which bars discrimination on grounds of gender, age, tribe and disability. Article 34 of the Constitution of the Republic of Uganda 1995 accorded rights to all children. The same Article also accorded parents the responsibility to look after their children and stated in part that 1) Subject to Laws enacted in their best interests, Children shall have the right to know and be cared for by their parents or those entitled by law to bring them up. 2) A child is entitled to have basic education, which shall be the responsibility of the state and parents of the child. 3) No child shall be deprived by any person of medical treatment, education or any other social or economic benefit by reason of religious or other beliefs. Article 35 addresses the rights of PWDs including their rights to representation.
The Local Government Act 1997	The Local Government Act amended 2006 provides for the roles of the central, district and sub-county Governments to PWDs. It also provides for self- representation of PWDs on Local Councils.
The Children’s Act 1997	The Act outlines the role of Government and other stakeholders, in supporting all children including those with special needs. The Act provides for the protection of the rights of the child by their parents or guardians who have the duty to maintain the child and to give such a child the right to education and guidance, immunisation, adequate diet, clothing, shelter and medical attention. In the context of CWDs, Section 9 of the Act specified that ‘Parents of CWDs and the State shall take appropriate steps to see that those children are i) assessed as early as possible as to the extent and nature of their disabilities, ii) offered appropriate treatment, and iii) afforded facilities for their rehabilitation and equal opportunities to education’ . The Law therefore, adequately provides for the rights and privileges that a CWD should enjoy like any other child.
The National Council for Disability Act (2004)	The National Council for Disability act 2003 provides for Disability Councils whose role is to ensure various Government bodies mainstream disability issues in development and that laws regarding disability are implemented
The National Disability Act (2006)	The National Disability Act 2006 protects and promotes rights of Persons with Disabilities focusing on implementing laws that concern persons with disabilities. It will govern advocacy to adopt pro-wheelchair rules and procedures across the board. The Transport act, Law on accessible buildings, and Child rights statute 1998 provide more legal support to this strategic plan.

DISABILITY ORGANISATIONS IN UGANDA

The Equal Opportunities Act (2006)	The Equal Opportunities Act 2006 provides for equality in employment and access to services for marginalized groups including persons with disabilities. This instrument is particularly useful to creating income generating opportunities for PWDs.

6.0 Institutional framework

The lead sector in disability in Uganda is the Ministry of Gender Labour and Social Development. The Minister for State for PWDs and Elderly affairs over sees the implementation of government policy on disability. The technical department is headed by a commissioner and coordinates, spearheads the mainstreaming of PWDs in development programmes.

The National Council for Disability was enacted by parliament to monitor, advise, mobilize resource for the mainstreaming of disability in all programmes and sectors. The council is represented at 3 levels of Governance; the national, district and sub-county.

The Ministry of Education and Sports plays a key role in the education of children with disability and training special needs teachers. The Education for All (EFA) campaign has enabled children with mild disabilities especially those with movement disability to access education.

Ministry of Health has included rehabilitation among the elements of its minimum health care package. Hospital –based Rehabilitation services are available in all regional and most districts hospitals.

At district level, a community development officer has been assigned responsibilities for disability although each department has a role to play.

Civil society Organizations are of three types that address disability. Those that are of PWDs, those that provide services to PWDs and those that work with various groups including PWDs. This directory limits itself to those composed of PWDs and those for PWDs.

Government-based Vocational Rehabilitation Centres

These are government based rehabilitation centres established to provide basic skills for self sustenance of vulnerable people including girls and persons with disabilities. These centres were categorized into three groups namely:

Rural Rehabilitation Centres: Targeting the rural-based populations where a person would train in agriculture and animal firming plus a simple skill such as tailoring for income generation. The trainees were expected to be resettled back home and practice their learned skills in their own home environment.

Industrial Rehabilitation Centres: These centres provide competitive skills for open market employment. These were meant for destitute men and women besides persons with disabilities, targeting the growing population of Jinja.

Sheltered Workshops: These targeted the more severe disabilities that would not be able to survive in the open employment market. They provided both the skills training and the employment. Examples include Kireka for production of umbrella production, Mbale for tents production.
